could conduct if given more troops.

But these sources said the U.S. commander probably will avoid any direct statement to the House and Senate on his requirements for additional troops beyond the 470,000 now due in the war area by the end of this year.

Current U.S. military strength in Vietnam totals about 439,000. Westmoreland's report is expected to make the point that the war will not be over soon, regardless of any further reinforcements he may get.

Associates said they look for him to stress — as he did before The Associated Press annual meeting Monday — that the Communist enemy has been badly bloodied, but has shown no signs of quitting.

HANOI From Page One

Marine reconnaissance team clashed with an enemy force in the same general area, and eight Marines were wounded. An air strike was called in, but again enemy casualties, if any, were not known.

Tuesday night another Marine company sweeping a mountain area near the scene of the earlier clashes ran into an estimated reinforced enemy company in what were termed well-prepared positions. Nine Marines were killed and eight were wounded. Artillery barges backed up the Marines, but again enemy losses were unknown.

3,000 Lbs. of Bombs Each Minute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tactic is bomb, bomb, bomb — and U.S. planes are doing it over North and South Vietnam at the incredible rate of more than 3,000 pounds a minute around the clock.

In March, as the administration quickened its drumbeat of explosive persuasion against Communist targets in the two countries, American planes unleashed 77,000 tons of bombs — a one-month record for the war.

This total is just short of the 80,000 tons dropped in Europe during the average month of the peak year of bombing in World War II.

With the recent intensification of raids over the North and the widening of the approved target list, the April tonnage seems likely to exceed the World War II rate.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara often points to the bomb tonnages to show that the magnitude of air operations in Southeast Asia "is just unbelievable. . . fantastic in size against any previous standards."

The 77,000 tons in March compares with 29,000 tons per month spilled against the Japanese at the height of World War II operations in the Pacific, and with 17,000 tons a month dropped during the Korean War.

The bulk of the effort is directed at North Vietnam, although airpower is used on an unprecedented scale to support ground operations in the South.

In various configurations and sizes — from 250 pounds to one-tonners, plain impact types to delayed fuses — bombs are hitting virtually anything directly or indirectly associated with Communist operations in South Vietnam.

This includes roads, highways, bridges, railroads, trucks, boats, barges, fuel tanks — and most recently major power plants and MIG fields in North Vietnam.

Destruction is not the only reason for the bombing. Although no administration official has ever stated publicly that U.S. planes are being used to terrorize North Vietnam, Air Force Secretary Harold Brown said pointedly in a major policy speech last December:

"All of these targets are hostages to U.S. airpower which operates over North Vietnam every day. That power can be increased to a much higher level if it is concluded, on balance, that this will contribute to the attainment of our objectives."

"It is also a constant and visible reminder to the people of North Vietnam that their leaders cannot avoid the cost of aggression."

Still, administration spokesmen say the chief consideration in the selection of targets is the question of how many civilians might be killed. Policy is to avoid, or at least minimize, damage to the populace.

The massive reliance on bombs forced the Pentagon to order full speed ahead on production last year, so much so that now the brakes are being applied.

16 Plunge to Death in Plane Crash

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
NANTUCKET, Mass., (AP) — A U.S. Air Force plane loaded with sophisticated radar gear crashed into the Atlantic Ocean like "a ball of fire" Tuesday night. There was only one known survivor among the 16-member crew.

The pilot, Col. James P. Lyle, 47, was credited with ditching the four-engine Super Constellation in a heroic effort to avoid the sleepy island village of Nantucket.

Lyle, who has 47 combat missions on his record, was one of 13 crewmen missing. Two bodies were recovered.

Rescued from the water was Lt. Joseph L. H. Guenet, 29, Montreal, Que., the navigator. He was listed in fair condition. "I am convinced that he—"

Lyle—was fighting desperately to get it to the water and avoid this summer colony," said Albert L. Manning, one of three experienced private pilots who agreed that a last-minute maneuver kept the craft from striking the island.

"It skidded along the water for about 4,000 feet and when it hit there was this huge burst of fire and a big red fireball," said Rene A. Orleans. "I'd never seen anything like it."

At the controls of the four-engine Super Constellation when it went down about a half-mile off shore was Col. James P. Lyle, 47, commander of the 551st Airborne Early Warning and Control Wing at Otis Air Force Base in Falmouth.

The navigator of the craft, Lt. Joseph H. Guenet, 29, was rescued by a search helicopter shortly after the crash.

Two bodies were recovered and a night-long search by Air Force and Coast Guard units was intensified at dawn.

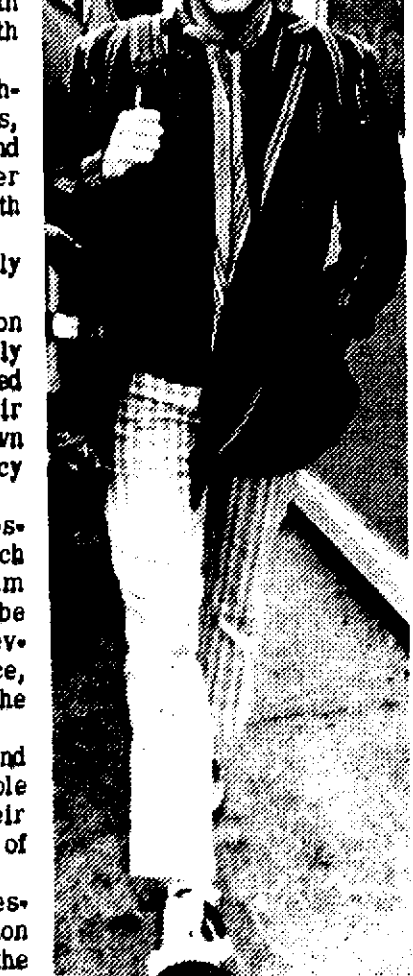

Officials at Otis said they had reports before the crash that crewmen were manning individual life rafts for a ditched landing at sea, but there were doubts that many could have survived the explosion.

If the crewmen were able to don their rubber suits and escape in the life rafts, they could survive at sea "for a considerable period of time," Col. John M. Konosky, wing vice commander, told a news conference at Otis.

The crash was the third fatal plunge in less than two years involving Otis radar planes, which fly air defense missions between Newfoundland and Bermuda. The propeller-driven craft cost $2.5 million and carry additional millions worth of radar equipment.

Manning, chairman of the island's Airport Commission, and two pilots airborne near the island airport — Orleans and Michael Lamb — said Lyle apparently made a last-minute decision to ditch at sea instead of risking a fiery landing at the airport.

The craft was less than 10 minutes out of Otis and carried about 7,330 gallons of fuel.

The Medlocks' vehicle collided with a trailer-truck. The driver of the truck was not injured seriously.

Kodak Firm Target of Negro Group

By PHILIP WECHSLER
FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP) — It began with a mass demonstration and ended with a threat of racial violence.

In between, amid cries of "white arrogance" and "black power," the Eastman Kodak Co. conducted its annual stockholders meeting Tuesday.

The usual decorum of the meeting was upset when a militant Negro organization from Rochester, N.Y. — FIGHT — carried its cause to this rural county seat in central New Jersey. FIGHT — freedom, integration, God, honor, today — disputed the company's hiring policy.

After the meeting Rev. F.D.R. Florence, 32, president of FIGHT, announced that a mass demonstration would be held in Rochester July 24, the anniversary of the racial riots that erupted there in 1964.

During the meeting, about 40 supporters of FIGHT stalked out, asserting afterward that Kodak had "declared racial war upon the black community of the nation."

FIGHT contended that the corporation had the moral obligation to aid the deprived members of the community. Kodak argued it was doing that.

The specific controversy stemmed from an agreement signed with FIGHT Dec. 20 by a Kodak assistant vice president. Under the accord, Kodak, one of the nation's largest corporations with 100,000 employees, agreed to hire and train 600 unskilled and unemployed Negroes in Rochester, the company's home base. Two days later, Kodak nullified the agreement, claiming it was unauthorized.

The legal counsel of Kodak explained at the shareholders' meeting Tuesday "the contract (with FIGHT) would have been discriminatory, not against Negroes, but against non-Negroes." The explanation was greeted with a loud round of applause by the vast majority of about 1,000 stockholders.

Before the meeting, about 500 FIGHT supporters staged a demonstration in the center of Flemington, carrying signs such as "Kodak snaps the shutter on the Negro." They then marched a mile, with a state police escort, to the Hunterdon Central High School auditorium where the stockholders met.

About 40 FIGHT members were admitted to the meeting but immediately stalked out after giving the board of directors a two-hour ultimatum to reconsider its decision on the agreement.

During their absence, various church officials and lay supporters of FIGHT, all Kodak shareholders, questioned directors on company hiring policy.

William S. Vaughn, chairman, explained that the company had 1,400 Negro workers in Rochester and conducts recruitment drives at Negro colleges. He said the company's apprenticeship training program had "disappointing" results in recruiting Negroes.

Shortly before the meeting ended, the FIGHT members, led by Florence, returned. Florence asked Vaughn for his decision, "just a yes or no if you're going to honor the agreement."

"No," Vaughn replied, and the FIGHT members walked out again.

Afterward, at a news conference on the school lawn, Florence declared: "Kodak's reneging on the agreement symbolizes to us that powerful white corporations can not be trusted by poor blacks across the nation."

He said this means "racial war." He upped his job demand from 600 to 2,000.

Stockholders received encouraging news during the meeting — quarterly net earnings were $60.7 million or 75 cents per share compared with net earnings of $60.3 million or 74 cents per share for the first quarter of last year. A quarterly dividend of 40 cents also was declared.

Campaign Financing Still Alive

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long has won a key test in the fight to save his presidential election campaign financing law, subject of a monumental debate that has snarled the Senate for four weeks.

Long, D-La., emerged the victor Tuesday in a 43-41 vote against a bid by opponents of the finance plan to, in effect, uphold an earlier Senate vote to repeal the plan.

That set up the possibility of a showdown vote later today on a Long move to overturn the repealer.

Earlier, the Senate voted 88-0 for an outer-space treaty described by President Johnson as a key plank in his East-West "bridge-building" program.

The pact would prohibit non-peaceful uses of outer space and provide for on-site inspection. It states "no nation can claim sovereignty to outer space," the moon and other celestial bodies.

The campaign financing plan, signed into law last year, could make available up to $30 million each to the Democratic and Republican parties in the 1968 presidential race. It allows taxpayers to allot $1 of their federal income taxes to the campaign, with the money to be split between the two major parties.

Battleground for the campaign financing fight has been an administration bill that would restore tax incentives urgently sought by business interests. The bill already has cleared the House.

In the meantime, Long encouraged adding a number of other amendments to the tax bill — dealing with subjects ranging from meat imports to income tax credits for parents of college students.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield stepped into the fray with a motion to eliminate nearly all the extraneous provisions from the bill, many of them strongly opposed by the Johnson administration. But it would have left on one rider — a repealer of the Long plan.

Long and other Democratic senators have been trying to get Mansfield to alter his motion. In an emotion-packed speech Tuesday, Mansfield told the Senate he had decided to do so, but only with the consent of Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and John J. Williams, R-Del., co-authors of the repealer amendment.

Gore and Williams refused such consent and Mansfield abruptly called for a vote on his original motion, which was adopted 63 to 22.

This had the effect of putting the bill before the Senate containing only the business tax provisions and the repealer of the Long plan.

Long immediately offered his motion to strike out the repealer, then got his 43-41 victory when opponents lost in their effort to table his motion.

Custody Case Scheduled Wednesday
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court will consider Wednesday whether Chancellor P. S. Cunningham of Walnut Ridge had the authority or the jurisdiction to commit a woman to jail for taking her two children to Puerto Rico and keeping them away from their guardians too long.

Attorneys for Mrs. Ruth Estes, 27, petitioned the court Tuesday and argued that Cunningham lacked the authority to take the action he did. Mrs. Estes was arrested Monday.

The children, Terri Lynn Masner, 8, and Toni Gayle Masner, 7, were placed in the custody of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Masner, in 1959. Attorneys for Mrs. Estes said Cunningham granted her permission to have custody of the children from Aug. 15 to Aug. 29 last year. She kept them past those dates however, getting a court order in Puerto Rico to remove them from a plane that was preparing to leave Puerto Rico.

Truck-Rails Vote May Be Indecisive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union says the membership vote on a proposed national contract may be indecisive enough to force a second balloting.

Frank Fitzsimmons, Teamsters general vice president, said Tuesday union members whose votes have been counted so far "are voting a majority" to accept the proposed pact.

But he indicated large numbers of the 450,000 Teamsters involved are not voting, and added: "If a substantial number of employees do not vote, a mail referendum may have to be conducted."

Apparent confusion among some Teamsters over whether the contract already had been approved — plus reluctance by some to vote while a trucking strike-lockout continues in Chicago — was generally credited with the low vote.

In Chicago, where union members and employers are not part of the national contract, federal mediator C. K. Call summoned leaders from both sides to a meeting in hopes of helping talks.

A new call for an end to the dispute came from Thomas Coulter, spokesman for the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, who said the stalemate has "vitaly affected commerce, industry and employment" in the nation's second largest city.

Teamsters struck eight Chicago trucking companies last week. More than 1,000 companies locked out 45,000 Chicago-area truckers early Monday.

The national union-management negotiations produced a tentative agreement on a three-year nationwide contract with wage hikes of 56 cents an hour plus fringe benefits believed to bring the total to 70 cents. Chicago unions want a 90-cent-an-hour package, including fringe benefits. Teamsters now average $3.32 to $5 an hour in wages.

No progress was reported Tuesday in new talks aimed at averting a threatened nationwide railroad strike.

The six railroad shop unions involved in the dispute said that when they suggested a 6 per cent wage hike was inadequate, "the railroads immediately terminated the conference."

The six unions, whose 137,000 members are scattered among nearly all the nation's railroads, now average about $2.90 an hour. They have asked a 6.5 per cent pay boost. The companies have offered 5 per cent.

Russell's Tribunal Having Trouble

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — British philosopher Bertrand Russell's "war crimes tribunal" to condemn American policy in Vietnam will begin sessions here Wednesday, its organizers say, despite renewed opposition by the Swedish government.

President Charles de Gaulle last week barred the tribunal from France, and Swiss authorities last month forbade the tribunal to meet in Geneva.

Premier Tage Erlander said Monday the government did not welcome the tribunal and that he had made this clear to its organizers last fall.

Australian to Visit the U.S.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Holt will leave May 28 on a visit to the United States, Canada and Britain.

Holt will spend two days in Los Angeles before going to Washington June 1 for talks with President Johnson on the Vietnam war and the international situation. Holt will also give the president impressions he formed during his recent tour of Cambodia, Laos, Formosa and South Korea.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

WHICH PARENT GETS THE CHILDREN?

Dear Helen: I am the stepfather of four children. My wife and I are getting a divorce. She has legal custody of her four, as their real father deserted them.

My wife's two boys want to go with me when we split up. I say a boy needs a father, and a stepfather is better than none at all. They are teenagers and we have a close relationship — like father and sons.

I already checked with a lawyer and he says it is legal if the boys want to go with me.

My wife is undecided. It wouldn't make her a bad mother to allow me to finish raising the boys, with her taking the girls. I've been their father for eight years and it would be hard on them as well as me to split up. She works and it would be hard for her to raise four — especially active boys.

Is there anything wrong in children choosing for their stepfather? I love them — AFATHER

Dear Father: Nothing wrong at all, so long as your lawyer says it's legal and your estranged wife gives her okay.

What a shame that a man who rates this high with his stepchildren can't also make it with their mother. Why not try a marriage counselor before you take the final step? — H.

Dear Helen: When did you graduate from college? Or am I flatterer you? I refer to your reply to MARIE about getting into "the college of your choice" with a B+ average.

I am a recent graduate of one of the Seven Sisters (included in your Big Ten category), and I can tell you one must be an "A" student to be accepted in any of these, or their equal.

Also I am a high school teacher who believes in the importance of working my students to the caliber of college work. Academic records are more important than extra-curricular activities. In these top colleges, public high school students are competing with those from private schools and I have never yet found a public high school which offers the advanced courses and good training private schools do.

A student should be FORCED to work to his fullest capacity. When he doesn't he is sinning against himself, God, (who gave him the ability) and society. An "A" means top capacity. It is almost mandatory these days, with universities so overcrowded, — K. C. L.

Dear K: Funny, you'd think a Seven Sisters graduate would read more carefully. I said, "A straight-A" grind has less chance of making . . . the Big Ten. . . than a B or B+ average student who has LEADERSHIP qualities . . . The key word is GRIND. It indicates a less-than-total person.

With many more knocking than can be admitted, top "name" universities seek brains plus the ability to use them in a world that rejects "eggheads." Scared-rabbit types — even with 3.9 averages — are often shot down.

On the other hand, I feel "making the Big Ten" is a status symbol we could well do without. Sometimes it indicates the kind of snobishness displayed by a public high school teacher who insists private schools are the ONLY way to travel. — H.

LET'S TALK ABOUT MOVIES

By VELDA SEAMANS

We hoped you enjoyed seeing "Professionals" as much as we did and thought you would.

***** We have another truly great week of shows coming up. Tonight it's the odd titled "The Pad and How to Use It", which is entertaining.

***** Friday and Saturday we bring back to the Seanger two of Presley's best pictures on one program — "Fun in Acapulco" and "Girls Girls Girls". These two are tops, and don't think we need to say more.

***** Starting Sunday we bring to Hope at the Seanger the road show production, "Greatest Story Ever Told". This has a cast of thousands at least 20 of the leading stars such as Charlton Heston and John Wayne. It has been shown on roadshows at $3 in the large cities — but now we are bringing it to Hope.

IT'S A GREAT WEEK TO GO THE MOVIES IN HOPE!!!!

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — Truman Capote dabbed at his nose with a tissue and said in his small-boy's voice: "It's my own fault, I guess, riding all the way from Kansas City with the top down in a convertible."

The author had made the 400-mile trip to witness the filming of his nonfiction novel, "In Cold Blood," and he was suffering the consequences.

Capote was staying at the Wheat Land Motel, where he had lived during his research into the 1959 murders of the Clutter family. His feelings upon returning to Garden City were mixed.

"I spent a great deal of time here—18 months in all," he explained. "During that time I made some very good friends with people who didn't know who on earth I was. I mean they viewed with a kind of fascination this strange little nut who was interested in a rather obscure murder case."

"I like seeing my friends again, but really, what is there to do in Garden City, Kan?"

One thing was to visit the set of "In Cold Blood," and he was pleased with what he saw.

"It seemed to me like a very close-knit, smooth-running organization," he remarked. "You can usually tell when something is going to be successful; there is an undercurrent of excitement."

Though indoors, Capote was bundled up in a fleecy-lined jacket with a dark-blue baseball cap atop his thinning hair. He wore dark glasses and his cherubic face was ruddy from the long drive from Kansas City.

He said that the Richard Brooks script was a condensation of his book—"It had to be considered, or it would be a nine-hour movie."

Producer-director Brooks had carried out his specification, said Capote, that the movie had to be shot in black and white with unknowns.

What about John Forsythe, who plays the killers' nemesis, Alvin Dewey of the Kansas Bureau of Investigation?

"Well, John Forsythe was unknown to me," said the author with a high giggle. "So Brooks still adhered to my specification. Besides, Forsythe has an absolutely uncanny resemblance to Dewey."

Dead 265 Years Gets Tax Letter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON (AP) — Samuel Pepys, dead for 265 years, has received a letter from the taxman.

The famous diarist who wrote of the 1666 fire of London and the 1665 plague was also known as "father of the Civil Service."

Tuesday a letter for Pepys was received by his publisher, G. Bell and Sons.

It was an inquiry from the Civil Service's Tax Department asking for Pepys' tax district, whether he got a state pension and if he had declared his current income.

Said a spokesman for the publishers: "We have been publishers of Pepys' Diary for 70 or 80 years and there is a certain amount of work going on on a new edition."

"This may have brought the name Pepys to the tax sleuths. We shall return the form saying that Mr. Pepys is no longer employed by ourselves."

He took honors as the best British actor for his performances in the same film and also in "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold."

Both the Burtens attended the award ceremonies at London's Grosvenor House hotel Tuesday night.

Miss Mansfield Cancels Show

TRALEE, Ireland (AP) — Jayne Mansfield's Irish cabaret debut was canceled Sunday night after the Roman Catholic bishop of County Kerry, the Most Rev. Denis Moynihan, urged the faithful to stay home.

NBC, starting May 20, will make Frank McCee its weekend voice for news. He will take over the Saturday 6:30 p.m. news show now handled by Ray Scherer and Robert McNeil and continue his usual 6 p.m. Sunday show as well.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson returned to NBC's "Tonight Show" Monday night, while Jack Paar was Joey Bishop's guest on ABC. This made for a trying evening for the television fan who could not watch two shows at once.

Carson, smiling and obviously in good spirits, bounced on stage to applause and cheers after a month's absence and asked "Is the strike over?"

He referred jokingly on two occasions to an increase in salary under a new contract.

"I feel guilty working just before Passover," he said. "You're supposed to eat unleavened bread — and I came back for more dough."

Later he complained about having to give so many interviews to reporters, adding that news stories made him out to be "a combination of Jack the Ripper and Dillinger who had sneaked in at night and held up NBC."

After a few more mild cracks, Buddy Hackett came out and the show settled into its normal groove.

Paar, in his first appearance as a guest on a carbon copy of the show he created, was amusing in his exchanges with Bishop on the proper handling of the host's job.

He did seem a little jumpy and ill at ease, which led Bishop to suggest that "you're nervous enough to come back to this kind of job again."

"I really don't miss any of this," Paar said, and you felt he really meant it.

CBS' special Monday night starring the popular Herb Alpert and his Tijuana Brass was a tuneless, ingenious program, full of surprises and inventive camera work, all done on location.

There was almost no dialogue and little singing, but it was packed with music from the moment Alpert and his band opened the show playing in the Tijuana bull ring to the final fade-out on a Pacific beach.

The program was in excellent taste, well-paced and pleasing to both eye and ear.

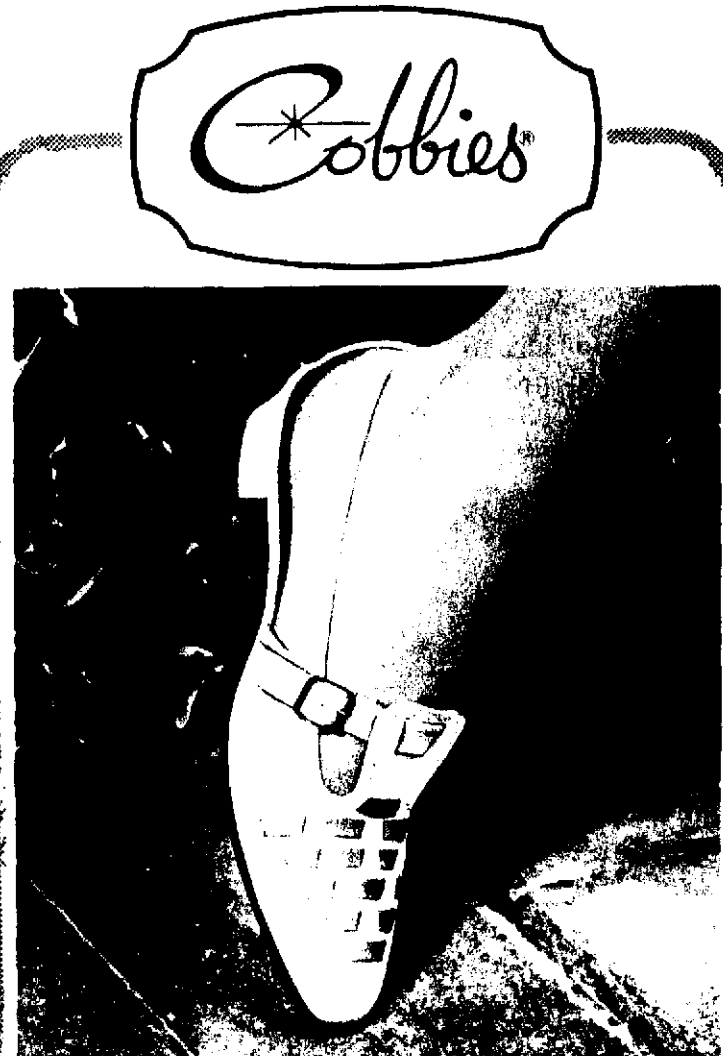

NBC, starting May 20, will make Frank McCee its weekend voice for news. He will take over the Saturday 6:30 p.m. news show now handled by Ray Scherer and Robert McNeil and continue his usual 6 p.m. Sunday show as well.

Jackson Hurls a One Hitter

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Aspromonte has lined up with one-shot villains Elton Howard and Jim Fregosi on the pitchers' union's Unwanted List. But the Houston third baseman raises a special spot — alongside ex-teammate Joe Amalfitano — on Al Jackson's personal ledger.

Jackson, St. Louis' stylish little left-hander, allowed only one hit — a leadoff single by Aspromonte in the eighth inning — as the Cardinals blanked the staggering Astros 4-0 Tuesday night.

It was the third one-hitter in the majors this spring — and the second for Jackson in his seven-year National League career. Each time, he has picked on Houston.

Bill Rohr of Boston, making his first big league start 11 days ago against New York, held the Yankees hitless until Howard singled with two out in the ninth. Two days later, Baltimore's Steve Barber went into the ninth with a no-hitter against California before yielding a one-out single by Fregosi.

In 1962, Jackson's first year with the New York Mets, the slender sinkerballer fired a one-hitter against Houston, giving up a first-inning single to Amalfitano before slamming the door.

Aspromonte broke up the no-hit bid Tuesday night with a line shot to left. Otherwise, Jackson who came to St. Louis in a 1965 winter trade and posted a 13-15 record last year, was in complete command. He walked three and struck out three in his early-season record to 2-1.

"It was one of my best games because I was in control all the way," he said afterward. "The pressure stopped building after we got the 4-0 lead. Then, the long ball wouldn't have hurt as much."

While Jackson was planning Houston with its ninth straight loss, Juan Marichal won for the first time in four decisions, scattering seven hits in the Giants' 6-1 victory over Cincinnati.

In other National League games the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings behind rookie Tom Seaver's four-hitter; Pittsburgh whipped Philadelphia 7-3 and Atlanta rocked Los Angeles 7-1.

The New York Yankees battered the Chicago White Sox 11-2; Cleveland nipped Minnesota 1-0; Detroit shut out Kansas City 5-0; Baltimore shaded California 2-1 and Boston whipped Washington 9-3 in the American League.

Catcher Tim McCarver gave Jackson all the help he needed with a two-run homer off loser Chris Zachary in the second inning. Lou Brock doubled and scored in the third, then rapped a run-scoring single in the fourth.

Marichal, who held out for a month this spring after completing a 25-6 mark in 1966, then lost his first three starts, ended Cincinnati's five-game winning streak after pitching out of jams in the second and third innings.

Tony Perez' sixth-inning homer ruined the Giant ace's shut-out bid.

Jim Hart pounded a two-run homer in the first inning. Marichal doubled another run across in the second and the Giants knocked out Cincinnati rookie Gary Nolan with three more in the sixth.

Seaver singled for the Mets in the 10th inning, took second on a sacrifice and third on a wild pitch, and scored the winning run on Al Luplow's single. The Cubs had tied it in the ninth when Don Kessinger scored from second on a two-out error by shortstop Ken Harrelson.

Willie Stargell lashed a homer and single, drove in four runs and led the Pirates past Philadelphia. Reliever Billy O'Dell blanked the Phillies over the last 4 1-3 innings to earn the victory.

Rico Carty slammed a two-run homer and Mack Jones knocked in two runs with a single and double as the Braves trimmed the Dodgers behind right-hander Ken Johnson, who scattered seven hits.

Travelers Beaten at Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Albuquerque relief pitcher Joe DeLuse pitched out of jams in the eighth and ninth innings and in the process pitched the Dodgers to a 3-1 victory over the Arkansas Travelers Tuesday night.

DeLuse came on in the eighth inning with the bases loaded. Art Deras grounded out to end the inning. Pinchhitter Rogers Robinson doubled in the ninth and Jim Williams was safe on an error. DeLuse got Jose Arcia and Billy Wolff on successive fielder's choices to end the game.

Dodger second baseman Luis Alcaraz scored on run and drove in another. He tripled in the fourth and came home on a sacrifice fly and then doubled home Bill Sudakis in the sixth. The Dodgers got their other run in the eighth on Mel Corbo's sacrifice fly.

Austin's Conrad Noessel scattered three hits as the Braves dropped Dallas-Fort Worth 5-1 at Austin. Only one of the Spurs' hits got out of the infield. Austin blasted out 10 hits.

El Paso moved to within one-half game of the league lead with a 6-3 victory over Amarillo at El Paso. The score was tied 3-3 going into the seventh but the Sun Kings scored one in that inning and picked up two more in the eighth on Amalfitano errors.

Super Bowl May Go to Miami in 68

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, conferred with Orange Bowl officials Tuesday and said Miami is the 1968 Super Bowl football game.

Rozelle met with the Orange Bowl Committee, Mayor Robert King High, and the City Commission.

The first Super Bowl game between the National and American Football League champions was played last January at Los Angeles. Rozelle said a final decision for the 1968 site will be made by a special committee of club owners at a May 23 meeting in New York.

The Miami Herald said Rozelle confirmed that Miami faces competition from Los Angeles, where the leagues have an option to return for two years; New Orleans, which reportedly will offer free use of the Sugar Bowl, and Dallas and Houston.

High said Rozelle told him financial terms will not be the sole factor in choosing a site.

"We want to pay our way," Rozelle told the officials. He said Los Angeles charged 10 percent of the gross with a maximum of $50,000 for use of the Coliseum. He recalled this ceiling made the rental charge on a gate of $700,000 about seven percent.

Rozelle said Miami has strong support from club owners in both leagues and listed the city's main advantages as:

- Favorable weather conditions and an enlarged Orange Bowl which will seat 75,000 persons by 1968.
- Miami's proximity to larger cities in the two leagues and the abundance of first-class accommodations.
- Appreciation of NFL owners for support given to the Playoff Bowl by Miamians for seven years and efforts of the Orange Bowl Committee in developing the game.

"We are very pleased with the warmth and enthusiasm of the committee for this game," Rozelle said. "That could be a factor because we want to go where we're wanted."

Yanks Take Chisox, First Place

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sometimes even the best laid plans go awry. Steve Hargan's did, but he improvised well.

"The last thing I wanted to do was walk Tony Oliva," the Cleveland pitcher said Tuesday night. "I was trying to give him a chance to hit."

But with two out in the ninth and Hargan breezing along on a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead, the Minnesota right fielder did walk.

"I wasn't planning on pitching to Harmon Killebrew in the ninth inning," Hargan said. Plan or no plan, there at the plate stood the Twins' slugger. Hargan struck him out.

The 24-year-old right-hander did more than just pitch in victory — both shutouts. He scored the only run.

With one out in the sixth, Hargan beat out an infield hit, went to third on Vic Davallillo's double and scored on Max Alvis' sacrifice fly.

The only run Hargan, the lone Cleveland pitcher to go the route this season, has given up in 20 1-3 innings was an error, and it tagged him with his one defeat. It came during a 2-1 3-inning relief stint in the Indians' 4-3 opening day loss to Kansas City.

In other American League games Tuesday, the New York Yankees took over first place by trouncing the Chicago White Sox 11-2, Baltimore nipped Philadelphia 2-1, Detroit blanked Kansas City 5-0 and Boston walloped Washington 9-3.

In the National League, the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh topped Philadelphia 7-3, St. Louis topped Houston 4-0, Atlanta bombed Los Angeles 7-1 and San Francisco downed Cincinnati 6-1.

The Yankees broke a 2-2 tie by scoring six times in the fifth inning on four singles, Charley Smith's double, two walks, a wild pitch and an error.

Whitey Ford, who won his second game against one loss, contributed two singles to 1 Yankees' 17-hit attack. Smith also had another double and two singles.

Frank Robinson was the key man in Baltimore's victory, driving in a run with a sacrifice fly in the third inning and tripling and scoring on Brooks Robinson's single in the sixth. Tom Phoebus made the two runs stand up, with California scoring only in the seventh.

Joe Sparda allowed only five hits while his Detroit mates made the most of the same number of hits in beating Kansas City. The Tigers scored four times in the first inning on three singles and a sacrifice fly and once in the seventh on Dick McAuliffe's homer.

Al Kaline of Detroit extended his hitting streak to 11 games with a single.

A three-run homer by Mike Andrews, solo blasts by Reggie Smith and Tony Conigliaro and Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double powered Boston past Washington.

Clay Seeks New Way to Beat Draft

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay and his lawyers threw one final desperate punch today in an effort to block the heavyweight champion's induction into the Army Friday.

They went before U.S. Dist. Judge Allen B. Hannay with an appeal that the government be prevented from taking criminal action against Clay until settlement of a lawsuit challenging the Selective Service system.

The suit, a ponderous 67-page document naming the director of Selective Service, and 29 others as defendants, was filed Tuesday.

Judge Hannay agreed to listen to Clay's lawyers, Hayden Covington of New York and Quinn Hodges of Houston today.

These talks are to determine whether a formal hearing on the matter should be held before the heavyweight champion is asked to take the oath at 8 a.m. Friday.

Clay, who calls himself Muhammad Ali and insists he is a Black Muslim minister, says he will refuse to take the necessary step forward when his name is called.

Failure to do so makes him subject to a possible $10,000 fine, five-year prison sentence, or both.

The champion says he'll go to jail first.

"I will not disgrace my religion, my people or myself by becoming a tool to enslave those who are fighting for justice, equality and freedom," Clay said.

Observers said there was scant chance the heavyweight champion would be given temporary relief by the latest legal maneuver. The U.S. Supreme Court already has twice rejected Clay's plea, the last time on Monday.

Clay, in his suit, contends that Negroes are discriminated against by Selective Service boards because these boards do not have a representative number of Negro members.

The petition alleges that the director of the Selective Service System, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, and Rep. L. Mendell Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, had made statements prejudicial to Clay's case.

Clay flew here Tuesday from Washington, conferred with his lawyers and then rushed to Chicago, apparently for a talk with Elijah Muhammad, head of the Black Muslim movement in this country.

"My loyalty is to Elijah and Allah," said Clay.

The champion was subdued during his brief visit in Houston, which he now calls home.

Covington said every legal move will be taken to give Clay a stay from the confrontation with the government.

"If this fails, then the decision is up to Clay," Covington said. "We don't try to influence him on what he should do."

Mikita Wins Trophy for Hockey Play

TORONTO (AP) — Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks was named winner today of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's most valuable player and the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship and superior performance.

Other post-season honors went to Harry Howell of the New York Rangers, chosen the circuit's outstanding defenseman, and Bobby Orr, 19-year-old Boston defenseman, as the rookie-of-the-year. Howell will receive the Norris Memorial Trophy and Orr the Calder Memorial Trophy.

Mikita, a center, is the first player in NHL history to capture three awards in one season. He also won the Art Ross Trophy for leading the league in scoring with a record-equalling 97 points.

Mikita received 168 points in the Hart Trophy voting by hockey writers and broadcasters in the league's six cities. Ed Giacomin, New York Rangers' goalie, was second with 57 points followed by Chicago's Bobby Hull, the MVP the previous two seasons, 21 points.

A combative player during his first seven years in the big league, Mikita was assessed only 12 penalty minutes in 1966-67. He accumulated 145 in the Byng balloting. Dave Keon of Toronto was second with 35 points and Phil Goyette of the Rangers was third with 33.

A FEMININE LEAD is taken by Natasha Todorova, first girl go-cart racer in the Soviet Union. Natasha is a member of a group known as ELMA (Experimental Laboratory of Micro Autos) in Russia, for youngsters from ages 12 to 17, who apparently enjoy the sensation of speed shared by American youth.

Warhorses Best in a Longer Race

114SPTu v b51 eg26
TORONTO (AP) — "Us old warhorses are better in a longer race," said a happy Marcel Pronovost.

The veteran Toronto defenseman was in the Maple Leafs' dressing room, resting up from his club's bruising 3-2 marathon victory over Montreal Tuesday night in the final Stanley Cup playoff round.

Not until Bob Pulford found an almost open net at 8:26 of the second sudden-death overtime did the Leafs win the game that gave them a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series for the coveted hockey cup. The fourth game will be played here Thursday.

"I had the whole net to shoot at," said Pulford, noting that Montreal's rookie goalkeeper Rogation Vachon was on the far side of the goal.

"Pete Stenkowski cleared it out to Jimmy Pappin and I don't know whether he saw me or not, but anyway he knew I should be there and he laid it right on my stick.

"It was the greatest goal of my life."

The clubs ended the regulation three periods tied 2-2. John Ferguson tied it for the Canadiens with 50 seconds left in the second period after Pappin had put the Leafs ahead 2-1 midway through that period.

Jean Beliveau scored in the opening minutes of the game for the Canadiens but Stenkowski tipped in a shot for the Leafs in the same period. After that the long game seemed to affect both clubs.

"We missed a lot of chances," said Ron Ellis of the Leafs. "But you just have to keep shooting and hope they'll go in."

Both Johnny Bower, Toronto's 42-year-old veteran goaltender, and Vachon turned in sterling performances in the net, with turn," he said.

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League announced Monday the signing of Jerry Bradley, a 21-year-old passer-catcher, end from the University of California.

Bower picking up 60 saves and Vachon stopping 51 shots.

"We trained all year for this," said Toronto Coach Punch Imlach, who believes there is no substitute for practice and hard work. "I thought the club was getting stronger as we went along." Frank Mahovich, Toronto forward, agreed, saying, "We seemed to pick up momentum as the overtime progressed."

Though the game lasted 1 hour, 28 minutes and 26 seconds, it was far from the Stanley Cup and 30 seconds set in 1936 when Detroit ousted the Montreal Maroons 1-0.

Toronto captain George Armstrong said he was tired, "but you always keep going. You get yourself up for the game and you stay with it until it's over — win or lose."

Vachon, in the Montreal dressing room, said he was not disheartened by the loss. "Next time, it will be my performances in the net, with turn," he said.

Could Be Year for Dr. Updegraff

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — This could be the year that Dr. Ed Updegraff finally wins the Men's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

The 45-year-old Tucson, Ariz., urologist was the man everyone was keeping an eye on as today's third and fourth round began.

Updegraff came up with the best performance of the tournament Tuesday in trimming capable John Guenther of Reading, Pa., 5 and 3 with a four-under-par effort over the 7,000-yard, par 72 No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

Guenther, who was one under and had eagled the par 4 seventh hole with a 125-yard nine iron shot to temporarily even the match, paid this stunned tribute to his conqueror:

"I never thought you could get beat that badly and play that well."

Updegraff knows exactly how Guenther felt. Last year when Ward Wetlauffer won the tournament, Updegraff fired a two under par round against him in the semifinals, only to lose 1-up.

That was Updegraff's third trip to the semifinals in six visits here. He's a two time Western Amateur champion and twice played on the U.S. Walker Cup team.

Updegraff was tucked away in the bottom quarter of the draw. His third-round opponent was Dr. R. A. Impaglia of Auburn, N.Y.

The Walker Cup delegation, still not near the form it is hoping to display against the British in Sandwich, England, next month, survived the second although none of the four men managed to equal par.

Player Trains on Scotch, Cigarettes

CINCINNATI (AP) — There's one player on the Xavier University football team who trains on Scotch and cigarettes.

Coach Ed Biles says that's all right with him—as long as the player, Mario Bolanos of San Jose, Costa Rica, keeps kicking 50-yard field goals, soccer-style, with either foot.

"I'm probably the only football coach in America who recruited a player with a pack of cigarettes," Biles laughs.

Bolanos transferred to Xavier last year and came out for football as a specialist. But he quit the team after the first game, saying it was too rough.

This spring, the 21-year-old sophomore applied for readmission and Biles agreed. He even assured the 5-foot-9, 190-pound Bolanos he would never be called upon to run with the ball or risk being tackled.

In the Musketeers' spring drills, Bolanos works out by himself kicking the ball at one end of the Xavier Stadium. Biles hasn't had much chance to watch him and admits he's constantly learning new things.

The other day the coach walked over to where Bolanos was kicking with a group of students watching from the stands.

"You owe me eight now," he overheard Bolanos holler to his fans.

Eight what?

"Eight Winstons."

"I suppose you drink, too. Tequila, of course," said Biles.

"Now, coach. It burned going down the first time. Scotch."

Until that same time, Biles had considered Bolanos only as a right-footed kicker. But there he was, kicking the ball through the uprights from the 30-yard line time after time with his left foot.

"Mario, your right foot. What's wrong?" the coach asked.

"Coach, for two hours I kick with right foot. It's tired. I kick with left foot a while," replied the player.

L.R. Party May Bring Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court may examine police search powers and juvenile delinquency laws as a result of a Saturday night party at a Little Rock housing project.

The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund hopes this will be the case in filing an appeal with the court for a Negro couple Tuesday.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dokes, gave the party Jan. 30, 1965, in their two-bedroom apartment in the all-Negro Booker housing project. The party brought together 22 whites and Negroes, including five persons under 18 years of age.

Two members of the Little Rock vice squad, alerted by an off-duty policeman serving as a night watchman, arrested everyone at the party. The adults were charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and the minors were charged with illegally possessing alcoholic beverages.

In the appeal, the Dokes repeat their claim before the Arkansas Supreme Court that they had not legally advised of their rights.

Two major constitutional questions raised by the case, however, extend beyond possible racial factors. They concern whether authorities need a specific invitation from a person before searching his home and whether "catchall" juvenile delinquency laws are valid.

The Arkansas Supreme Court, affirming the Dokes' conviction Dec. 19, held that Mrs. Dokes had invited the policeman into the apartment. She denied this, however, in the trial.

The Legal Defense Fund asked the Supreme Court to declare that before someone can relinquish his constitutional right to privacy he must know the nature of his right.

Balloonists Got Ticket

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Three wayward balloonists, including the eventual winner, were ticketed by forest rangers for drifting into Joshua Tree National Park during a race Sunday, it was disclosed Monday.

"If we had ignored this," said Chief Ranger Rothwell Broyles, "everybody would be doing it."

Federal regulations prohibit an aircraft to land in the park, except in an emergency.

Key Club Report Is Given

Comprehensive reports highlighting the Arkansas-Missouri Key Club convention held in Hot Springs recently were given before Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday at its noon luncheon meeting.

Total of 750 delegates from the two states attended, Hope sending 15 representatives which is half of the membership of the local key club.

Speakers Tuesday were Fred O. Ellis, Jr., president of the local youth group, Larry Don Wright and Dwight Galloway. Each made impressive talks in relationship to the convention and what Key Club membership had meant to them personally.

Larry Don Wright outlined what the club had accomplished the past year, pointing out that the student organization had promoted leadership and better citizenship to the school and community.

The Kiwanis club first organized the Key Club at Hope High School in February of 1947, and over the past 19 years has played a vital part in contributing to the training and growth of hundreds of Hope High School students. The Kiwanis club annually awards a college scholarship to a ranking Key Clubber.

Tuesday's program was arranged by E. P. Young and Steve Marlar, who accompanied the 15 delegates to the Hot Springs convention, along with Mrs. Young.

Guests included: Fred Ellis, Randal Leister and Robert Trout.

Still Dialing When Bottom Dropped Out

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — James Whitten was still frantically dialing movers when the floor dropped out of a bedroom in his $15,000 house.

Whitten and his wife left home on the run, minutes before a bedroom and another room, walls, furniture and all, crashed into a gaping hole that had suddenly opened under their home. Neighbor Melvin Prine's carport collapsed into the hole, too. The Prines also evacuated.

The chasm was so deep that a 25-foot ladder didn't touch bottom. Truckloads of filling material were dumped into the hole. Area residents are nervously watching their own houses for the wall-cracks that were Whitten's only warning.

Whitten's catastrophe was the most spectacular thus far in the springtime "sinkhole season" which central Florida has come to dread. Other recently opening sinkholes gobbled up a water main at Winter Haven, a house near Lakeland and a section of State Road 548.

Geologists blame sinkholes on the region's network of underground rivers flowing through limestone which saturate and erode the porous rock. In time big hunks of the limestone crumble into the streambeds and, all of a sudden, a yawning hole opens in a field, a street or under a building.

Seems That Everybody Is Sensitive

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is said to be very sensitive to criticism about his handling of the war in Vietnam. But his critics seem sensitive, too, to criticism about criticism.

There was a good example of it this week after Gen. William C. Westmoreland made a 51-paragraph speech on the war — enough to fill half of a newspaper page — and then answered questions that took up the rest of the page.

But in all he said the commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam used only one paragraph, plus one sentence in another paragraph, to criticize American critics of the war.

It was this bit about the critics that the critics seized upon, skipping over the rest of the speech which Westmoreland made to the annual meeting of The Associated Press in New York.

He was accused of being a kind of messenger boy for Johnson — a propaganda agent — ordered by Johnson to say what he said.

Yet, it was a very excellent speech, full of details and background and explanations for the U.S. part in the war, the very kind of speech some people think Johnson should have made long ago to the American people, but hasn't.

Briefly, Westmoreland said this about the criticism at home: While the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are discouraged by military defeats, they are encouraged to keep on fighting by the criticism.

They interpret the criticism, he said, as "crumbling morale" in this country and popular opposition to the war. He added: The longer the enemy keeps fighting, the higher the cost in American lives.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., perhaps Johnson's most persistent critic on the war, protested that Westmoreland's criticism of the critics was part of a

Johnson administration attempt to "shut up" dissenters and link dissent with treason.

Fulbright last year said he looked upon the Vietnam conflict as a civil war and "I think we are... intervening in a civil war."

But Westmoreland, with a ringside seat in Vietnam as commander there for three years, said in his speech that the war is anything but civil, that it is a boldfaced attempt by the Communist North to take over the non-Communist South.

To explain why, he went into a lot of detail which may satisfy those Americans who were puzzled about who did what to whom. But it undoubtedly won't move the critics an inch, including Fulbright.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., another war critic, started off the attack in the Senate on Westmoreland's speech with a speech of his own that called for an end to the bombing although the enemy never moved any closer to the peace table when Johnson ordered a bombing pause a number of times.

McGovern said he didn't blame Westmoreland for what he said because "he is obviously doing both in Vietnam and in New York exactly what he is told to do by his commander in chief, the President."

Westmoreland failed if, as Fulbright claimed, he was just a Johnson mouthpiece trying to silence the dissenters. As can be seen from this, instead of feeling chastened, the speech started the critics all over again.

Johnson and Westmoreland must have figured it would, in this war few seem to change their minds. Therefore, it would seem, the best Westmoreland could hope for was to make the critics self-conscious.

It seemed to do that, all right, judging from their fast reaction.

He Said It

Contrary to widespread belief, the World War I phrase, "Lafayette, we are here," was not the utterance of Gen. John Pershing. It was that of Col. Charles Stanton, American Army officer, whom Pershing had delegated to speak in his stead.

Letters to the Editor

Editor-the-Star: I did not realize just what affect TV was having on the morale of our nation until I got a TV. It is doing more to lower the morale of our nation than alcohol beverage has ever done or will do. How? TV creates idleness, creates discouragement and discouragement will wreck a home. The home is the foundation of any nation. I am grateful for a family that enjoys reading. We enjoy reading to one another. But we have let this TV interfere with reading.

My wife and I taught our children to read by reading something interesting such as bedtime Bible stories or dog stories to them before they started to school. We use the Bible as a foundation for our reading and studying and if we study as we read we get the real meaning of what we read.

A character is molded the first six years of a person's life, the three main elements go into molding a character are love, obedient and sharing with others and if there be a fourth element it would be teaching the art of reading.

Reading will play an important part in how a person is prepared. Reading helps exercise our thinking ability. We are not taught how to think any more than we are taught to think. One heritage our forefathers handed down to us was how to get along with and make something out of what they had. When they wanted anything they gave it much consideration and if it needed it they rolled up their sleeves and went after it.

People today think they have got to have what they want even if they have to get it with a government handout. Some of the great leaders of our forefathers got a large part of their education from reading, as they had no public library in reach, no means of transportation nor a bookmobile to bring books to them.

I find the public libraries are a great store house of knowledge. It is our own fault if we do not get some of it. History is written during one generation to be used as a guidepost, for the future generation. What caused the fall of Rome was broken homes, excess taxation, extravagant spending. TV has got a long way to go before it will replace reading as a source of knowledge.

Yours truly,

When an expert is playing well it is a pleasure to watch him.

Internationalist Al Roth took enough time out from running New York's Mayfair Bridge Club to play in the New Jersey mixed team championships. Today's hand shows him sitting East and defending against three no-trump.

Barbara Rappaport who sat West led the four of spades. Al's nine lost to South's ten. South's next play was to lead a diamond to dummy's ten. Al won with the jack and looked things over carefully. He decided that South held three spades, two hearts, four diamonds and four clubs and that the best Barbara could hold would be the queen of spades and king of clubs. It was hopeless to keep attacking spades but Al saw that it would be far worse to start the club suit. He led his deuce of spades.

South won with the ace and went after hearts. Al won the fourth heart. Meanwhile Barbara had let two spades go and South dropped a diamond and a club.

Now Al led the three of clubs. South played the ten and Barbara won with the king.

She realized that Al could not be too good in clubs. He had led a spade the first time he got in. Hence it was up to her to lead a diamond to her partner. She did and the best declarer could do was to take eight tricks and give Al the last two with the ace of clubs and a high diamond.

South could have made the hand by attacking clubs instead of diamonds but at most other tables including the one where Roth's and Rappaport's partners sat North and South the same early plays were made.

Most South players attacked the diamonds and still made the hand, but without the fine defense of Roth and Rappaport.

AP Members Elect New Directors

NEW YORK (AP) — Members of The Associated Press have re-elected three directors and elected three new ones.

At the annual meeting of the worldwide cooperative news organization Monday, Richard L. Jones Jr., president and general manager of the Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune led in the balloting and was re-elected with 8,472 votes.

Jones was followed by two other incumbent directors — Eugene C. Pulliam, editor and publisher of the Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette, 8,088 votes; and William Dwight, editor and publisher of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript-Telegram, 8,071 votes.

Two incumbent directors were replaced. They were Benjamin M. McKelway of the Washington, D.C., Sunday Star, a former AP president, who retired from the board; and Henry D. Bradley of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette & Sunday News Press, who was not eligible for re-election.

The places of McKelway and Bradley were taken by D. Tennant Bryan, publisher of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader and Times-Dispatch, with 6,939 votes; and Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, with 6,364 votes.

Other nominees and their votes were: Stanley H. Stauffer of the Topeka (Kan.) Daily Capital, 5,147; Thomas Vail of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, 4,519; J. Kelly Sisk of the Greenville (S.C.) Daily Piedmont, 4,097; J.W. Gallivan of the Salt Lake City (Utah) Tribune, 3,180; and Loring C. Merwin of the Bloomington (Ill.) Daily Pantagraph, 2,408.

Incumbent director Fred A. Seaton of the Hastings (Neb.) Daily Tribune was replaced by Dolph C. Simons Jr. of the Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World for cities with less than 50,000 population. The vote was 5,679 to 5,434.

Leukemia Takes Life of B29 Raider

DETROIT (AP) — A member of the aircraft crew that launched the world's first atomic attack is dead of acute leukemia at the age of 46.

He was Mr. Sgt. Robert R. Shumard of Detroit and his plane was the B29 "Enola Gay," which turned Hiroshima into flames on Aug. 6, 1945.

A doctor at Veterans Hospital in suburban Dearborn, where Shumard died Monday, said it was his opinion excessive radiation could cause leukemia, but whether Shumard's illness might have been the result of a delayed reaction to the Hiroshima A-blast is an unanswered question.

Alan W. Chadwick, hospital director, said Veterans Administration regulations would prohibit a doctor giving his opinion on that question, even if he knew, which Chadwick said was doubtful.

Shumard entered the hospital only last Saturday. It was three weeks ago that the strapping 6-foot-2, 210-pound Shumard became ill. The diagnosis was acute leukemia.

Why Does George Check Outstanding Claims Daily?

He doesn't have to. Most agents don't. Many agents simply mail loss reports to the Company and forget them. They think by some magic formula all will turn out well. George knows it doesn't work that way. He knows that in spite of good intentions of the Company to pay promptly, sometimes things can go wrong. A report might be lost in the mail, a doctor's bill isn't mailed, needed estimates aren't furnished by the claimant, the insured misses an appointment with the adjuster. George figures he is paid to take care of all the details, and to follow through on every claim. So he does, every day.

Viet Cong Will Get Some U.S. Items

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some U.S. commodities will continue to find their way to the Viet Cong through normal market channels, assistant AID administrator Rutherford M. Poates told Congress today.

The second-ranking official of the Agency for International Development — AID — said there is no way to prevent such diversions "in a war of no fronts and with extensive infiltration of Viet Cong in nearly every town and province."

His statement was prepared for the opening of hearings on aid to Vietnam held by the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations. Poates said AID and the Vietnam government must take special measures to control strategic commodities to see that they do not fall into the hands of the Viet Cong where they could be used against allied troops or the general public.

Poates has been under fire from Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., for inefficient management of the AID program to Vietnam. Bayh opposed Senate approval of President Johnson's nomination of Poates to be deputy administrator of the U.S. worldwide AID programs.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved the nomination and a full Senate vote is expected soon.

Russian Calls for End to Vietnam War

By GENE KRAMER
KARLOV VARY, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev renewed the Soviet campaign for U.S. withdrawal from Europe Monday night and called on European nations to demand withdrawal of the U.S. 6th Fleet from the Mediterranean.

Brezhnev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, told the meeting of 24 European Communist parties that opened Monday in this hot springs spa that it is time to close foreign military bases and "the subversive, espionage and sabotage centers, radio stations and various organizations set up by the Americans in West Germany and other Western European countries which are conducting slanderous propaganda against the Socialist countries."

He repeated the perennial Communist call for dismantling of the rival North Atlantic and Warsaw military blocs and added: "A number of countries, including North European ones, would find neutrality an alternative to participation in the military-political groupings of the powers."

He said the Soviet Union "would readily meet half way" any initiative of neutral countries to promote peace and would discuss bilateral treaties with any European country wanting to develop and improve relations with Moscow.

Coppolino Defense Uses Wife's Letter

By DON NORTH

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Twelve days after the death of his wife, Dr. Carl Coppolino, now accused of her murder, wrote a friend in New Jersey: "I'm bitter, confused and frankly frightened. I've been trying to forget."

The letter became a defense exhibit Tuesday in the doctor's trial on a charge of killing his wife, Carmela, with an injection of the paralyzing drug succinylcholine, on Aug. 28, 1965.

"The children ask when will I get a new mommie," it went on. "The only solution is to marry again and as soon as possible. (They) need love, affection and home life."

The state has caused Coppolino, 34, an anesthesiologist, of murdering his wife to collect $65,000 worth of insurance on her life and to wed the current Mrs. Coppolino, the former Mary Gibson, a wealthy divorcee.

They were married Oct. 7, 1965.

The defense opened its side of the case — which claims no murder was committed — with testimony that the state's evidence did not reveal a cause of death.

Dr. Richard Ford, chief medical examiner of Boston, said he had read the autopsy report and testimony of the state's medical experts and they contained no basis for concluding a cause of death.

In his examination of tissue which the prosecution said showed the site of an injection, Ford said he found "nothing identifiable as a needle puncture."

In a booming, steady voice, Ford also discounted the testimony of a key state witness, Dr. Bert LaDu, professor of pharmacology at New York University. LaDu said he had analyzed tissue surround the alleged needle track and found traces of the drug.

"I disregard that testimony," said Ford. "He used a method specifically designed for this case and never before applied to this purpose. I wouldn't put a man's life at stake on it."

To meet the state's contention that Coppolino was in financial trouble and killed out of greed, the defense called a Sarasota attorney, Johnson Savary, to testify that a $25,000 trust fund was set up for Coppolino's two children in April 1966.

Savary said the trust was created with $25,000 life insurance on Carmela which the carrier had refused to pay. Coppolino signed over his interest in the policy to daughters Monica, 9, and Lisa, 4.

Savary said under cross-examination that since he no longer had an interest in the proceeds, Coppolino could not be called upon to testify under oath in a suit for collection he had filed.

Coppolino's letter, to Dr. Edmund Webb, of a New Jersey pharmaceutical firm and long-time friend, said, "I am sure that when I marry my action will be frowned upon. Until they (no reference) are in the same position, they don't have a right to judge."

Percy Could Carry the GOP Banner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois is emerging among Republicans as a man who could carry the credentials of a Vietnam peace campaigner into a race for the White House.

Percy heavily underscored in recent days his differences with President Johnson's war policy and, by implication, with Republicans who endorse that policy — including other GOP leaders now considered prospects for the presidential nomination.

He has called for a stepped-up peace effort, emphasizing Asian initiative, for an end to military escalation, and for greater restraint in American bombing of North Vietnam.

At the annual meeting Monday of The Associated Press, he registered a "strong dissent" over U.S. bombing of airfields in the Communist North.

Percy has not advocated military withdrawal, nor has he suggested a U.S. halt in bombing of North Vietnam without some peace move by the Communists.

At the same time, Percy has carved a leading GOP role on a major domestic issue looming for 1968: the critical problems facing American cities.

He won unanimous sponsorship of his 35 Republican Senate colleagues for his bill to promote home ownership as a step toward improving life in the slums.

Vietnam and urban turmoil could be the two key issues in the next presidential campaign. Percy has said repeatedly he is not a candidate, but has not flatly ruled himself out of that campaign.

"I cannot foresee any circumstances under which I would be compelled to be a candidate," he said Sunday.

For three days now, Percy has been elaborating his Vietnam position. The process began Saturday with a call for redoubled peace efforts.

"The only rational policy is to pursue peace with at least as much vigor and invention as we now pursue war," Percy said.

On Sunday, he criticized current bombing policies, saying U.S. warplanes should aim at carefully selected infiltration routes, not at power plants and similar targets.

"If we bomb all over North Vietnam, we constantly run the risk of involving innocent people, innocent civilians who have not been forewarned that there will be bombing in those areas," Percy said.

Presidential Nesting Season Is Now Here

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the presidential nesting season when the possible candidates attract attention by ruffling their vocal cords while trying to avoid laying an egg or saying yes or no positively.

Even Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam didn't say "absolutely not, under any circumstances" when he was questioned Monday at the annual meeting of The Associated Press.

From time to time his name has been mentioned as a man the Republicans might like for a candidate. He was asked if it was true he might be coming home one of these days and that he would have political ambitions if he did.

"I am a soldier," Westmoreland said, "and I think I have a fairly important job in South Vietnam today, and as such, I'd have no political intentions, ambitions or aspiration, and I will remain at my post as long as my superior authorities wish me to do so."

But this still wasn't a flat refusal to consider the nomination if it were offered him. He is in this country on a short visit and will return to Vietnam.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is on a world tour — he stopped off in Vietnam for a look-see — with information and opinions which ought to give him a lot of talking points if the Republicans pick him.

He still hasn't said he wants the nomination, or will try for it, but just a few days ago in Taipei he left all the doors open by saying something so obvious it meant nothing.

He said no one could predict what the future held for him in terms of an active part in a political campaign. But a group backing him for the Republican nomination has opened a headquarters one block from the White House.

And one of his active supporters, Robert C. Kill, a former U.S. ambassador to Mexico, said earlier this month, "In my opinion the decision is not open. It has been made. Nixon will run, despite the fact that he hasn't said yes and he hasn't said no."

Nixon is going to have opposition if he does run, right in his own neighborhood. Backers of Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney are also active.

Prince Charles in Polo Debut

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Wheeling and whacking with great dash, Prince Charles has made his competitive polo debut.

He and his father, Prince Philip, played side by side on the Windsor Park team, a winner Sunday in a match against Bucket Hill.

"Well played, Charles, you did a very good job," Prince Philip said as the match ended.

George Romney opened Romney-for-president headquarters in Washington last month, two blocks from the White House.

Just a little over a week ago, wandering around with a couple of hundred other tourists and his wife in historic Williamsburg, Va., Romney paused to pat a baby on the head. He said he doesn't kiss babies, "I pat them."

He was much less positive when asked if he would seek the presidential nomination. "I don't know," he said.

For a man who says he doesn't know the answer to that question, he is spending an awful lot of time going around making speeches and keeping in the public eye. If he just wanted to remain a governor, he could save a lot of breath by staying in his office.

And then there's Illinois Sen. Charles H. Percy, already being talked of as maybe the bright hope of the Republican party in the 1968 presidential race.

For a man so new in the Senate — he arrived in January — he has been getting a lot of attention with a lot of speeches, and on big issues, like the war in Vietnam.

On the war he has taken a kind of middle ground, which may have a broad appeal, saying he is neither a hawk nor a dove nor, for that matter, an owl. For instance, he is not for unilaterally ending the war but is against escalating it; but he is a little hard to follow on bombing.

He is against bombing North Vietnam but only if the North Vietnamese are willing to make a concession in return. But at the same time he would like to see the bombing more limited than it is, say to the infiltration routes from the North.

But on the CBS television show "Face the Nation" Sunday he took quite a bit of time saying "I cannot foresee" circumstances that would make him a presidential candidate and saying he was not a candidate. But he didn't say he wouldn't leap at the chance of being one.

Democrats Fear War Will Hurt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many congressional Democrats fear if the Vietnam war is no nearer an end in 1968 than it appears now voter dissatisfaction will make it difficult for them and President Johnson to win reelection.

But others believe even if no clear advance toward peace is made, the voters will not take it out on them and will support the President.

An Associated Press canvass turned up 102 Democrats who said they believe that if the conflict shows no signs of being resolved Johnson's chances of being re-elected will be diminished.

Thirty members of the House and Senate felt that the war would not damage Johnson's political position and 39 declined to speculate. There are 311 Democrats in Congress.

Senators and House members whose seats will be at stake next year felt they had a generally better chance than the President of surviving any protest vote. Eighty-eight said the war won't affect their chances of re-election but 55 admitted it would be tougher for them to hold office if the war grinds on without any letup in sight.

Some thought the Republican presidential candidate is likely to wind up supporting Johnson's Vietnam policy but Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., was not one of these.

"The Republican party cannot win on local issues in this country," Madden said, "so they are now going to base their campaign on the Vietnam war. But if the Democratic party will come out on the issues of the last presidential election and campaign on those issues, we'll win."

Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., noted that Republican leaders had said the war would not be a campaign issue, but he still thinks it will. He added it could have adverse effects on Johnson's chances.

THIEVES TOOK WIRE
BULANDSHAHR, India (AP) — Indian farmers are not only being hampered by drought, insects and rodents but they are also plagued by thieves.

About 100 government and private wells ceased irrigation operations in this area recently when thieves cut one mile of electric power cable and made off with the wire — a high demand item on the Indian market.

Bottoms Up, Yankees

Let nothing but good be said of our friends, the Yankees. The Florida Citrus Commission has just discovered that New England families drink more frozen orange juice concentrate than anybody else.

New Englanders, the study shows, consumed last year an average of 5.27 gallons of re-constituted concentrate per household. Ironically, the South-east - including Florida - consumed the least, 2.97 gallons per household.

The Yankees of New England are earning our forgiveness for that little unpleasantness that happened between 1861 and 1865. Sorry about that friends - and keep on drinking orange juice! - Lakeland (Fla.) Ledger

Mail Call

Rep. George Bush of Houston wants to change the Post Office from "a politically dominated agency" to a "first-class postal system based on merit and professionalism." We hope the two bills he introduced get special handling so they won't end up in the dead letter office. - Dallas (Tex.) Times Herald

Style Setters

The youthful fad now sweeping the country of wearing old clothes can't help but bring a glow of modest pride to those of us who have been doing this for years without knowing we were setting a fashion trend. Some of us were doing it so our kids wouldn't have to wear old clothes. - Waynesboro (Va.) News-Virginian

Dole On Credit

Americans use credit cards for just about everything these days. Why not use them to administer public welfare programs? One scientist who has been studying social problems in California suggests that issuing credit cards to welfare recipients is a possibility worth thinking about.

According to Dr. Marvin Adelson, credit cards would generate better statistics. "We would gain a better understanding of how the welfare recipient spends his money . . . It would give a better view of what the true welfare needs are, and it might make for efficient administration."

Another benefit of credit cards is that they would do away with welfare checks. The person on welfare would be indistinguishable from anybody else. "The card would give him more dignity," says Adelson. - Melbourne (Fla.) Daily Times

Congratulate Losers

Nearly everybody has been congratulating the winners in the Baytown elections last Saturday and Monday. The Baytown Sun wants to make history by congratulating the losers.

Every candidate for public office in the school board and city elections made a contribution. They gave the voters a choice. It just so happens that the voters chose the winners. Our form of government would never work unless we had opposition candidates in our elections. Therefore, a person who offers himself for public office makes a definite contribution when he becomes a candidate.

So we can congratulate both the winners and the losers. - Baytown (Tex.) Sun

State Begins to Wring Itself Out

Arkansas began to wring itself out today after six consecutive days of wet weather.

The clouds which dumped heavy rains in Southwest Arkansas Tuesday afternoon were concentrated in extreme east Arkansas this morning, but were expected to move out of the state later in the day.

All cities reporting to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock recorded rainfall during the past 24 hours as the result of a low pressure area moving from Oklahoma into North Arkansas.

The fog and drizzle which shrouds the hills in Northwest Arkansas will slowly lift and dissipate this afternoon. Clearing conditions are expected by this evening.

Parking on Third St. Eliminated

The City of Hope will take up all parking meters on Highway 67 from Louisiana to Shover Streets in the near future, thus eliminating parking on either side of the Street. The Highway Department notified the city by letter it was ready to act.

Last fall the Board of Directors entered into an agreement with the Arkansas Highway Department to take this step. In turn the Highway Department will scrap off excess paving, mark the street for left turn movements and repair it in general. When the meters are removed all parking on Third Street through Hope will be eliminated.

In other action the Board will take bids on removal of a building at Municipal Airport; awarded a bid to Harold Hendrix for timber on the city dumping ground; accepted a bid from Chotaw Co. for a new street sweeper, the cost $13,270 and passes a motion giving 90 days grace to improvement districts to get up money for paving after petitions are filed. After 90 days six per cent interest will be charged.

State College Plans Nurse Program

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)— State College of Arkansas will initiate a training program for nurses in cooperation with the Baptist Medical Center, it was announced Tuesday.

Dr. Silas D. Snow, president of the institution, made the announcement and said Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had promised to donate $25,000 each of the next two years if SCA could match the funds.

Quachita Baptist University announced recently that due to a shortage of funds the institution's nursing school would not reopen in the fall.

Snow said students will study their first two years at SCA. He said they would continue attend classes in Conway the last two years but would also do clinical work in Little Rock twice a week.

Snow said he expected 150 students to enroll in the program in June. He said the program has been given conditional approval by the State Board of Examiners.

Colorado Governor Has Signed a Measure to Liberalize Abortion

By JOSEPH L. CLARK
DENVER, Colo. (AP)— Gov. John A. Love said his decision to sign a bill liberalizing Colorado's abortion laws was "one of the more important and difficult decisions of my experience in office."

The governor said before signing the bill Tuesday his mail ran to about 5,000 letters and telegrams - "about 2,600 against and about 2,400 for the bill."

Love said "the bill itself is completely permissive, not requiring any hospital, doctor, nurse, potential mother or any other person to act in any way to terminate a pregnancy at any time."

Leonard Carlin, president of the Catholic Lawyers Guild of Denver which opposed the bill, said he was disappointed, but not surprised.

"My impression," Carlin said, "was that he (Love) was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the bill."

Dr. Dana McLean Greeley, Unitarian Church leader, telegraphed Love, "We believe this bill, setting forth certain conditions for the interruption of pregnancy will be a landmark in American legislation."

Dr. Greeley is president of Unitarian Universalist Association, the national organization of the Unitarian Church, which is beginning its National Assembly in Denver Saturday. Colorado's seven Unitarian ministers also signed.

Love said the new law requires that abortions be performed only in accredited hospitals and that each operation must have the unanimous consent of a special three-man board of physicians.

"I am certain that the operation provided for will occur only in hospitals, subject to a severe test of accreditation, which will successfully prevent anything approaching abortion clinics," Love said.

"The fear that some have that Colorado will become an 'abortion Mecca' if this bill becomes law does not seem to me well founded."

Love said "the use or abuse of the bill will continue to be of great interest and concern to me. If we find defects or omissions or if abuses do, indeed, occur, we shall be the first to seek changes."

He said, "I believe that the bill as written contains safeguards and is designed to do something about areas of suffering and abuse which have been of concern to a great many people for a great period of time."

"I have confidence that our licensed physicians, acting as a three-man board, and with the protection of the law, will act responsibly to prevent possible abuses," the governor said. Colorado law previously allowed abortions only in cases presenting a severe threat to the physical health of the mother or in pregnancies resulting from forcible rape.

The new law permits the ending of pregnancies presenting a severe threat to the health - mental or physical - of the mother. It allows the termination of pregnancies resulting from incest or from any of the classifications of rape - including statutory rape.

Abortions also will be permitted under the new law in pregnancies likely to result in a deformed or retarded child.

Party Act May Go to the Voters

LITTLE ROCK (AP)— Col. Tom Shea of Little Rock said Tuesday a committee has been organized in an attempt to refer the political party affiliation act to the voters in the 1968 general election.

Shea and Dr. Charles Kaufman of Fordyce are co-chairmen of the Citizens Committee to Preserve Voters Rights.

Shea said the group would attempt to get more than 50,000 signatures. Robert W. Faulkner of Malvern, the group's legal advisor, said about 36,000 signatures would be required to put the act on the ballot.

The legislature passed the act over Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's veto. It requires voters to declare their political party preference on their voter registration affidavits.

Shea said the group would be bi-partisan.

Under the act persons registering as Democrats can vote only in the Democratic primaries. Persons registering as Republicans can vote only in the Republican primaries.

Truck-Tractor Crash Fatal

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)— John Franklin, 53, of Conway, died Tuesday when his tractor-truck skidded into an overpass on Interstate 40 about eight miles south of here.

State Police said Franklin's vehicle slid 600 feet on the edge of the pavement before it hit the bridge. Carter Franklin, the victim's son, is a football coach at Oklahoma State University.

Hanoi Area Again Hit by Bombs

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP)— U.S. Air Force pilots pressed their war against the Hanoi area with unrelenting fury today, bombing a key railway and highway bridge across the Red River four miles from the center of the North Vietnamese capital.

The steel and concrete bridge carries the only rail line between Red China and the North Vietnamese capital, the U.S. Command said.

U.S. spokesmen were unable to give an immediate assessment of damage to the bridge. They said it was a steel and concrete structure with five spans, 738 feet long and 20 feet wide, and with the center span is movable to allow passage of ships.

Other Air Force raiders from Thailand made the second attack in two days of an electrical transformer site seven miles north of Hanoi.

It was the third consecutive day of American raids on prime targets in North Vietnam's Hanoi-Haiphong heartland.

Pilots returning from the raids reported heavy opposition from anti-aircraft fire, surface-to-air missiles and MIG jets. The American spokesman made no report of any planes downed, but a dispatch from Hanoi to Tass, the Soviet news agency, said a missile brought down one plane near Hanoi in flames and that Radio Haiphong reported four American planes and a helicopter were shot down there.

There was no immediate American announcement of any raids today in the Haiphong area, however.

The U.S. Command did announce the loss of two more American planes over North Vietnam Tuesday, raising the number admitted lost Monday and Tuesday to six during the strikes on MIG airfields and key targets around Hanoi and Haiphong. U.S. spokesmen said 516 American planes now have been lost in the air war against North Vietnam.

In the ground war, U.S. Marines battled strong enemy forces in the rugged mountains below the demilitarized zone Tuesday and reported 14 Marines killed and 38 wounded in three engagements.

The ground action in northernmost Quang Tri Province began Tuesday morning when a small convoy of U.S. Marine engineers was ambushed in a mountain pass. The enemy force, of unknown size, opened up with small arms, automatic weapons and mortars, killing five Marines and wounding 22.

A relief company and armed helicopters were rushed to the aid of the convoy, and later in the day a command group and another company of Leathernecks were lifted into sweep the area. They made no contact, however, and enemy casualties were unknown.

Bitter Debate Erupts in Senate Over U.S. Policy in Vietnam

LBJ in Bid for Wider Support

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)— Gen. William C. Westmoreland's pending report to Congress appears a Johnson administration bid for wider support as the air war against North Vietnam escalates.

But it also could help create a climate for commitment of more U.S. troops in South Vietnam if President Johnson should decide such a course is necessary.

Pentagon sources said Westmoreland's speech Friday will be in the nature of a military progress report, summing up where the anti-Communist effort stands today compared to two years ago when the United States began to bring its military weight to bear.

The appearance by the U.S. commander in Vietnam comes against a background of apparent hardening of the Johnson administration's attitude on the military side of the war.

Such a hardening showed itself after North Vietnamese rejection of President Johnson's latest bid for reciprocal moves that could lead to peace talks with North Vietnam.

The air war against North Vietnam has escalated markedly in the past weeks, with more and more previously immune targets approved by Johnson for U.S. bombing.

In recent weeks the North Vietnamese army has become more aggressive in the area of the buffer zone separating North Vietnam from South Vietnam.

Westmoreland has shifted two Army brigades from other operations to support U.S. Marines in the northernmost sector of South Vietnam. Before long, this Army task force is expected to grow to full division size.

This development has sparked speculation that present Vietnam troop build-up objectives may be revised upward.

There are reports Westmoreland may urge commitment of at least one more division and possibly two. Counting support elements, this could mean 30,000 to 60,000 more men, including additional air support.

For many months, Westmoreland's staff officers in Saigon have spoken in terms of needing another 100,000 men.

Sources said Westmoreland may indicate to Congress there are additional operations he

Decision Soon on Mitchell

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)— Circuit Court Judge Harry Crumpler said Tuesday he would deliver a decision June 6 on whether Lonnie B. Mitchell, 31, voluntarily admitted raping a woman in 1959.

Crumpler heard testimony Tuesday in a two-hour hearing and gave the prosecution until May 15 to file briefs and the defense until June 1.

The hearing was ordered by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

Mitchell has been on death row in the Arkansas penitentiary since being convicted in April 1959 for the rape of a 77-year-old El Dorado woman.

Led by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., critics coupled fresh attacks on Johnson's policies with suggestions the President had brought Westmoreland home to flatten dissent to his course.

The critics saw ominous signs that Communist China and the Soviet Union may be brought together to react against stepped-up military pressure.

Critic Says General Is Being Used

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Senate has erupted into bitter, renewed debate of the Vietnam war with Gen. William C. Westmoreland's forthcoming address to Congress providing the spark.

Senate critics of U.S. policy charged Tuesday that Westmoreland, American military commander in Vietnam, was being used as a propaganda tool by the Johnson administration. Backers of administration policy said the debate itself feeds North Vietnamese hopes for final victory.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Cal., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, disputed in an interview today contentions that President Johnson is using Westmoreland's current visit home to silence dissent to war policies.

Russell said Westmoreland, scheduled to address a joint meeting of Congress and to brief governors at the White House Friday, is giving a "well-reasoned assessment" of the war situation.

Westmoreland told the annual meeting of The Associated Press in New York Monday that he sees no end to the war except by exerting maximum military pressure to grind the enemy down. He said U.S. fighting men are "dismayed" by "unpatriotic acts" of dissent at home that give the Communists hope they can win politically what they can't by force.

"You can't please some people," Russell said. "If the President brings the general home to report on the war, that's propaganda in their minds. If he doesn't bring him home, there's a credibility gap."

"I know of no one better qualified to tell the American people what's happening in Vietnam. I think Gen. Westmoreland is giving a well-reasoned assessment of the situation."

Replying to a suggestion in the Senate Tuesday by Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, that Westmoreland will call for 100,000 more American troops in Vietnam, Russell said he expects some increase in troop strength but declined to be more specific.

"The North Vietnamese are committing increasing numbers of their regular troops to the war," he said. "As long as they continue to do that and until their ability to do that is destroyed, we will need more troops."
